Mitchell has been offering leadership-based mastermind groups in the Tulsa area for more than a year, and has been consulting on business management and leadership since 2010. With a proven track-record of success, and a growing number of participants who have attributed their personal growth and success to working with Mitchell, he has chosen to offer more mastermind groups throughout the year to reach and empower more business professionals in the area who both want and need the help.

"As John Maxwell says, 'Everything rises and falls on leadership,'" explains Mitchell, "Empowering local business professionals to develop strong leadership skills is vital if they desire to reach their full potential in business and life. At the end of the day, my purpose is to empower others, and that's how I help businesses and leaders grow. Working with Tulsa area business owners and professionals in my mastermind groups is just one of the ways I do that. I'm extremely passionate about it."

According to Mitchell, the purpose of a mastermind group is to bring together like-minded people who are dedicated and motivated to making effective and lasting changes to their lives and business in a group setting. Mitchell's Mastermind Members meet for one hour each week for eight weeks. Each week Mitchell brings the group together to study curriculum-based materials that are focused on the specific area of their business or personal life they are seeking to improve.
